Farmed biodynamically and consistently delivering wines of Classed Growth quality, Château Angludet stands as a testament to excellence in Margaux. Owned by the Sichel family and managed since 1989 by Ben Sichel, the youngest of the brothers, this estate continues to produce exceptional wines year after year.

This is a ripe, expressive, and elegant Margaux, capturing the quintessential fruit profile and stature that Ben Sichel strives for in his wines. The colour is a deep purple, with a medium intensity. On the palate, the wine is laced with ripe blackcurrant, red cherry, and a beautifully integrated spice note, which complements its vibrant freshness and elegant tannin structure. The finish is a harmonious blend of bittersweet chocolate and subtle vanilla oak.

FAMILY WINE MERCHANTS SINCE 1906

| Vinification In 2024, the difference between picking dates was vital, to benefit from warm sunshine after the late September rain. In 2024, Ben Sichel waited, and the result is impressive. 40% of the blend will be aged in 700 litre clay amphorae, with the remainder aged in oak barriques, 35% of which are new.
