Tasting Notes:

A vibrant, ripe and spicy bouquet is complemented by a wonderful whiff of raspberry freshness. The palate is ripe and voluptuous with a wonderful streak of pure blackcurrant fruit, often associated with amphora élevage, the tannins are super suave and there is also a great energy in the wine. A wonderful, generous Angludet!

Specification

Vinification	Harvest 8th – 24th September. Yield 20hl/ha. They intended to begin harvesting in early September but chose to delay, allowing the fruit to benefit from the forecasted rains and regain a touch of freshness. And what a great call! The Petit Verdot berries were exceptionally small, as were those of the Merlot, both affected by the intense summer heat. As a result, there is a higher proportion of Cabernet Sauvignon in the 2025 blend. 30% of the blend is aged in 700 litre clay amphorae with the remainder aged in oak barriques, 30% of which are new. Alc 13.5%.
