Château Brane-Cantenac is a 2nd Growth Margaux estate, now owned and meticulously managed by Henri Lurton. Located on the gravelly terraces west of Cantenac, the vines sit on some of the finest terroirs in Margaux, historically recognised as part of the “Brane plateau.” The wines are celebrated for their finesse and aromatic precision, typically showing cassis, violet, cedar and refined spice framed by supple, silky tannins. Through careful parcel selection and modern precision in the cellar, this estate has strengthened its reputation as one of Margaux’s most consistent performers. The style combines depth and elegance, delivering a polished yet expressive interpretation of classic Margaux character.

Tasting Notes:

A powerful bouquet, rich and perfumed with notes of cedar wood. The palate is voluptuous with dark chocolate, sweet red cherry spiced with baked plum and a touch of dried herbs. This is an intense but stylish Brane, heavily dominated by 80% Cabernet Sauvignon with balanced tannins and a lovely warmth and spice on the finish. A big wine, but worthy of long ageing I suspect.
